

How good are you at listening?

- We rarely enter conversations with clean, unbiased listening.
- Our listening is shaped by agendas, assumptions, and pre-formed answers.
- Past experiences and beliefs about the other person filter what we hear.
- Ego, biases, and personal worldview further contaminate our listening.
- The goal is to notice these filters so we can manage them rather than judge them.

